Our school of Predictive Homoeopathy emphasizes on

- Follow-up criteria – Hering’s law (what is right and what is wrong follow-up?)

Example: There was a small child which was almost dying because of a severe fungal infection of the lungs. I was told on the phone, that the face was completely brownish and the hands were blue. The doctors had given up hope, the child was on the ventilator and I was asked, if I could help. I told them “yes, I can help, provided you tell me exactly what is happening”. I ordered them to give a particular medicine and told them to call me again after 15-20 minutes to report the changes. This shocked the doctor, he asked: “How can there be any change after 20 minutes? What do you expect?” I told them “At least outside there should be some sign. I need to know, if face and hands are coming back to normal color.”

Now which should come first? Only Homoeopaths can tell you that it is the dusky appearance of the face which should be the first, because the blood should reach the brain, the upper part first. But the doctor said “There is cyanosis and the blue color should go first.”

Predictive Homoeopathy is like a compass, it tells us what should go first and what should go second. And it so happened that after 25 minutes the face got its redness back and I didn’t mind that the blue hands were better only the next day.

To know this, makes a Homoeopath very courageous. It gives us the conviction that we are on the right track. The most important thing in a Homoeopath’s practice is, to know, whether he is on the right or on the wrong track, just prescribing is not sufficient.

Example: A patient with edemas all over the body got a remedy – after that the doctor told me: “It is much better, the legs are almost normal.” But the face still had edema – we were on the wrong track!

On the other hand, in a patient having congestive cardiac failure, if you give the right remedy, the breathlessness goes away and he starts moving about without having any discomfort. But at the same time the legs will show severe edema. The Allopath will say: “This is congestive cardiac failure, this is dangerous!” But if the edema is inside, it is much more dangerous to the patient, compressing the more important organ. Whenever you are treating a case of CCF and the patient’s legs become swollen up but the stamina increases, you are on the right track, you have only to wait, don’t touch!

This conviction can come only, if you know how the body cures itself, how we are stimulating the body and how it should go.

- Miasms as altered DEFENSE mechanism (psoric = physiological, sycotic = structural, syphilitic = destructive, destroying a part to save the whole)
- Genetic Constitutional Simillimum, which can bring about cures in accordance of Hering’s law
- All the above in light of modern science

This reversal of Miasm can be seen only IF A DOCTOR PRESCRIBES ON PATIENT'S MIND AND BODY GENETIC CODE

For this

- He has to UNDERSTAND THE MENTALS OF 3 MIASMS
- He has to UNDERSTAND THE PHYSICALS AND GENERALS OF 3 MIASMS
- In short he should know HOW the cure should proceed!

The understanding of the mentals, the physicals and the generals of the 3 Miasms is the only knowledge which is required to be a good Homoeopath!

We have to be aware of what is gone and what is coming, we have to know whether it is good or bad, we can make out those things immediately. This is like our own MRI or CT-scan, it can tell you if the patient is improving and you should leave him alone. That is why all of us should very well know how the smallest symptoms present themselves in every Miasm.

We all are in constant evolutionary phase. We Homoeopaths can see or not see the LAW OF CURE as per our stage of understanding that depends on our stage of evolution. There are still Homoeopaths telling us Hering's law does not exist; it is their ignorance talking, because they are not evolved to that level to see it. You have to stand higher up here, to see the last bench there. If you are standing down there, you may think the last bench does not exist. You have to go higher and higher, not in the state of ego or esteem, but in the state of knowledge. If your knowledge increases, you have a better prospective and a longer vision. So Homoeopaths who evolve further, will see Hering's law very clearly in every case, whether it is acute or chronic; and where you don't see it, be sure, you are going towards a suppression.

Example: A boy with severe headache on the left side and asthmatic bronchitis got Calc-i; the bronchitis disappeared, the headache disappeared and I was happy. But, while going away, the headache shifted first to the right side and only then went away. At that time I was not evolved enough to know about this and I told them: "As long as his immunity is strong and he does not come up with bronchitis every change of weather and the migraine is gone, just forget it." We kept him on s.l. only. But gradually he developed cardiomegaly. Why was this happening? I had neglected to take into account that the psoric symptom, the spasm, shifted to the right side before it disappeared. It has no business to do that.

We have to be aware for those small, small things – we have to be on the guard all the time whether we are on the right or wrong track.

The same with knee pains: Pains started on the left side, disappeared and went to the right side – if you give a remedy and the pains on the right side disappear without going back to the left side first, you are on the wrong track and the patient will go towards a more destructive disease.

If Predictive Homoeopaths know all this, they should get excellent results and least failures ... if not, what are the reasons?

Reasons for our failure

- IMPROPER APPROACH in finding the simillimum
- Wrong interpretation of the LAW OF CURE
- Faulty understanding of normal human nature (§ 98)
- § 3 – what is to be cured in disease and what is curative in medicine

Wrong interpretation of the LAW OF CURE

- Right at the beginning of a chronic case, e.g. heart problems, if there is skin rash or diarrhea they believe this is exteriorization and the remedy to be right. But this is not exteriorization! It is a process which takes time! The disease has to go from the heart (mesoderm) to the endoderm and then only to the ectoderm. How can in one day everything being reversed? Everything which is suddenly is destructive. Construction takes time, but destruction doesn't take time. To build up the World Trade Center took a long time, but it collapsed in a few minutes. For a man to be born takes 9 months – to die the man takes only one second. Here we are constructing the immunity, we are constructing his health which has been lost – how can in one day everything be reversed? It has to be a slow process! Hahnemann mentioned it in the Organon.
If you are going wrong somewhere, read the Organon again and again – you will find treasures in it; the deeper you go, the more treasures you will find. It is like the ocean – the deeper the divers go in, the more pearls they will find. The treasures are there, you have only to find it.
- Any acute reaction with high fever or strong inflammation or severe pain is taken as right direction. The cure should be gentle and permanent (§2). A patient getting very high fever or severe pain after a remedy is not right. Any homoeopathic aggravation has to be smooth and gentle. You cannot force a patient out of the disease. In India people sometimes hit a patient with a stick to force the ghost out of him.
- They feel any inflammatory illness no matter how severe should be left alone. A patient with a severe cellulitis will go into gangrene and the Homoeopath says that it has come onto the skin; we have to let it be. That cannot be right!
- They understand all aggravations as a good sign

§ 161 – Limits of homoeopathic aggravation

*When I here limit the so-called homœopathic aggravation, or rather the primary action of the homœopathic medicine that seems to increase somewhat the symptoms of the original disease, to the first or few hours, this is certainly true with respect to diseases of a more acute character and of recent origin, but where medicines of long action have to combat a malady of, considerable or of very long standing, where no such apparent increase of the original disease ought to appear during treatment and it does not so appear if the accurately chosen medicine was given in proper small, gradually higher doses, each somewhat modified with renewed dynamization (§ 247). Such increase of the original symptoms of a chronic disease can appear only at the end of treatment when the cure is almost or quite finished.

That means:

Only a physiological, non-structural disease can increase in terms of a homoeopathic aggravation. If there are structural changes like a tumor, a fibroid etc., you should not see any aggravation after the right remedy. If in case of a tumor there is an aggravation, this can only be the external, inflammatory part of the tumor which was aggravated, not the tumor itself; that means it is going into suppression. Wherever the disease is long standing or chronic, no apparent increase of the original disease ought to appear – Hahnemann writes it very clearly here! A severe disease cannot be aggravated – the patient may die! It has to come down immediately.

Phosphoricum acidum

- This is a remedy that is frequently indicated in Indian society where joint families are the way of life.
- Due to space crunch or many other reasons related to human behavior the joint families start breaking or disintegrating into small units.
- The pain of leaving the old home that hold nostalgic memories of the life there give rise to many illnesses.
- The sufferers can be both, the one who have left the home and the one who stay behind. For both it is a broken home that results into homesickness.
- The same condition can come when two people divorce after having kids, esp. if there was love and deep attachment to the house involved.

Phosphoric acid

- Phosphoric acid is an essential part of our energy production cycle (citric acid cycle).
- Energy production for utilization of function of mind and body is a continuous process going on in the nucleus of every cell.
- This cycle is our biological Psora (bio-need) without which we cannot survive.
